Bob:

Several of us breakfasted with Dr. James E. Colvard, Deputy Director, Office of Personnel Management, on 4 February. He was strongly supportive of our benefits/compensation initiatives. During the hour following breakfast, when we briefed him in some detail about our efforts, he provided a number of good ideas--he worked at [redacted] for ten years where banding was first experimented with. He said forcefully that we should use our unique authorities and step out with our program, not wait for the rest of the Government. We authorized him to mention to such persons as Senator Stevens that we had experiments underway such as [redacted]

It was a very worthwhile, forward-leaning, stimulating discussion.
